On July 19, 2019, the Private Defendants filed a “Notice of Supplemental Authority” (Dkt. #190) advising the Court that Facebook had made a “policy change” related to 3D-printable firearm files. The Private Defendants did not submit a copy of the referenced policy, but rather a news article describing the policy change. It should go without saying that a private social media company’s policies are not legal authority as contemplated by LCR 7(n).

In any case, Facebook recently corrected its policy related to 3D-printable firearm files to comport with “all applicable laws and regulations,” including the federal export controls at issue in this case. Currently, Facebook’s policy provides that “3D gun printing files or instructions to manufacture firearms using 3D printers or CNC milling machines, including links to websites where such files or instructions are made available, may not be shared by anyone.” A printout of the relevant portion of the policy, obtained on July 30, 2019, from https://www.facebook.com/communitystandards/regulated_goods/, is attached as Exhibit A.¹

DATED this 31st day of July, 2019.

Policy Rationale

To encourage safety and compliance with common legal restrictions, we prohibit attempts by individuals, manufacturers, and retailers to purchase, sell, or trade non-medical drugs, pharmaceutical drugs, and marijuana. We also prohibit the purchase, sale, gifting, exchange, and transfer of firearms, including firearm parts or ammunition, between private individuals on Facebook. Some of these items are not regulated everywhere; however, because of the borderless nature of our community, we try to enforce our policies as consistently as possible. Firearm stores and online retailers may promote items available for sale off of our services as long as those retailers comply with all applicable laws and regulations. We allow discussions about sales of firearms and firearm parts in stores or by online retailers and advocating for changes to firearm regulation. Regulated goods that are not prohibited by our Community Standards may be subject to our more stringent Commerce Policies.

- This applies to both individual pieces of content and Pages and Groups primarily dedicated to the sale of marijuana or pharmaceutical drugs

Content that attempts to offer, sell, gift, exchange, or transfer firearms, firearm parts, ammunition, or explosives between private individuals, unless posted by a Page representing a real brick-and-mortar store, legitimate website, brand or government agency (e.g. police department, fire department). This includes content that:
